INDEX OF LEADING ARTICLES IN VOLUME IV OF THE VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE MAGAZINE

Arranged Alphabetically by Authors

ABBOTT, GRACE. Compulsory School Legislation and Vocational Guidance. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 263-269.

ACHILLES, PAUL S. and EDITH M. Factors in the College Man's Choice of a Career. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 170-173.

ADAMS, EDWIN W. The Problem of Guidance as a Factor in Civics Instruction in the Elementary Grades. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 65-67.

ADAMS, JESSIE. Placement by the Schools. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 269-272.

BINGHAM, W. V. An Ancient Vocational Guidance Program. No. 1, October, 1925, p. 23.

BLACKBURN, WILLIAM J. Adjusting Juvenile Workers' Problems in London, England. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 381-389.

BRADBURY, EMILIE C. Scholarship Work. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 173-176.

BRODHEAD, JOHN C. School Training for Industrial Workers. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 114-117.

CLARK, FLORENCE E. Survey of Research Carried On in the Field of Occupations and Industry by Persons and Bureaus Connected with the Public School System. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 309-314.

———. The Content and Arrangement of Schedules for Occupational Investigation. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 318-325.

CORRE, MARY P. Proceedings of the Occupational Research Section, Washington, 1926. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 307-309.

———. Problems of Summarizing and Editing Occupational Studies. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 334-340.

DE SCHWEINITZ, DOROTHEA. The Junior Employment Service. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 68-70.

ERICSON, EMANUEL E. A Cooperative Guidance Program. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 158-162.

FERTSCH, ALBERT. Supervised Employment in Relation to Vocational Guidance. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 111-113.

FILENE, A. LINCOLN. The Employment Manager. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 120-123.

FLINNER, IRA A. Intelligence of Successful College Board Candidates in Mathematics. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 361-363.

GILBRETH, LILLIAN M. The Value of Guidance in Industry. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 272-273.

GREENE, JAMES H. The Centralized Junior Placement Office as an Aid to the Employer. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 102-105.

GRIZZELL, E. D. A Program of Guidance in the School of Education, University of Pennsylvania. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 74-78.

HAWKINS, BURNELLE G. Opportunities in Modern Department Stores. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 129-130.

HOPKINS, L. B. Personnel Service in the College. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 364-369.

HUGHES, F. J. Personnel Service in Industry. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 370-374.

HURST, FLORENCE B. Vocational Guidance in the Philadelphia Continuation Schools. No. 2, November, 1925, p. 67.

INGLIS, ALEXANDER J. Vocational Guidance in Secondary Education. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 1-5.

JONES, ARTHUR J. Guidance at the University of Pennsylvania. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 73-74.

KINNEMAN, JOHN A. Is the High School Doing Its Job? No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 18-19.

KITSON, HARRY DEXTER. Extra-Curricula Activities as a Means of Guidance. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 357-361.

LAND, S. LEWIS. The Organization and Administration of Vocational Guidance. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 145-152.

LANE, MAY ROGERS. Relationships Existing between the Counselor and the Occupational Investigator. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 314-318.

———. The Content, Volume, and Uses of Occupational Studies. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 326-333.

LEE, EDWIN A. The Professionalization of the Guidance Worker. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 6-10.

MANLY, A. L. Vocational Guidance for Colored People. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 79-82.

MATTHEWS, MARIE, and MORSE, EVA. Vocational Guidance in a General Continuation Part-Time School. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 162-165.

MEYER, MAX F. What College Students Are the Best Readers? No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 168-170.

PATERSON, DONALD G. The Limitations of Scientific Method in Educational Guidance. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 15-18.

PEDRAZA, MARIAN S. Adult Employ-

INDEX OF LEADING ARTICLES IN VOLUME IV OF THE VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE MAGAZINE

Arranged Alphabetically by Authors

ABBOTT, GRACE. Compulsory School Legislation and Vocational Guidance. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 263-269.

ACHILLES, PAUL S. and EDITH M. Factors in the College Man's Choice of a Career. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 170-173.

ADAMS, EDWIN W. The Problem of Guidance as a Factor in Civics Instruction in the Elementary Grades. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 65-67.

ADAMS, JESSIE. Placement by the Schools. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 269-272.

BINGHAM, W. V. An Ancient Vocational Guidance Program. No. 1, October, 1925, p. 23.

BLACKBURN, WILLIAM J. Adjusting Juvenile Workers' Problems in London, England. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 381-389.

BRADBURY, EMILIE C. Scholarship Work. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 173-176.

BRODHEAD, JOHN C. School Training for Industrial Workers. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 114-117.

CLARK, FLORENCE E. Survey of Research Carried On in the Field of Occupations and Industry by Persons and Bureaus Connected with the Public School System. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 309-314.

———. The Content and Arrangement of Schedules for Occupational Investigation. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 318-325.

CORRE, MARY P. Proceedings of the Occupational Research Section, Washington, 1926. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 307-309.

———. Problems of Summarizing and Editing Occupational Studies. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 334-340.

DE SCHWEINITZ, DOROTHEA. The Junior Employment Service. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 68-70.

ERICSON, EMANUEL E. A Cooperative Guidance Program. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 158-162.

FERTSCH, ALBERT. Supervised Employment in Relation to Vocational Guidance. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 111-113.

FILENE, A. LINCOLN. The Employment Manager. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 120-123.

FLINNER, IRA A. Intelligence of Successful College Board Candidates in Mathematics. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 361-363.

GILBRETH, LILLIAN M. The Value of Guidance in Industry. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 272-273.

GREENE, JAMES H. The Centralized Junior Placement Office as an Aid to the Employer. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 102-105.

GRIZZELL, E. D. A Program of Guidance in the School of Education, University of Pennsylvania. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 74-78.

HAWKINS, BURNELLE G. Opportunities in Modern Department Stores. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 129-130.

HOPKINS, L. B. Personnel Service in the College. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 364-369.

HUGHES, F. J. Personnel Service in Industry. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 370-374.

HURST, FLORENCE B. Vocational Guidance in the Philadelphia Continuation Schools. No. 2, November, 1925, p. 67.

INGLIS, ALEXANDER J. Vocational Guidance in Secondary Education. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 1-5.

JONES, ARTHUR J. Guidance at the University of Pennsylvania. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 73-74.

KINNEMAN, JOHN A. Is the High School Doing Its Job? No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 18-19.

KITSON, HARRY DEXTER. Extra-Curricula Activities as a Means of Guidance. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 357-361.

LAND, S. LEWIS. The Organization and Administration of Vocational Guidance. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 145-152.

LANE, MAY ROGERS. Relationships Existing between the Counselor and the Occupational Investigator. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 314-318.

———. The Content, Volume, and Uses of Occupational Studies. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 326-333.

LEE, EDWIN A. The Professionalization of the Guidance Worker. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 6-10.

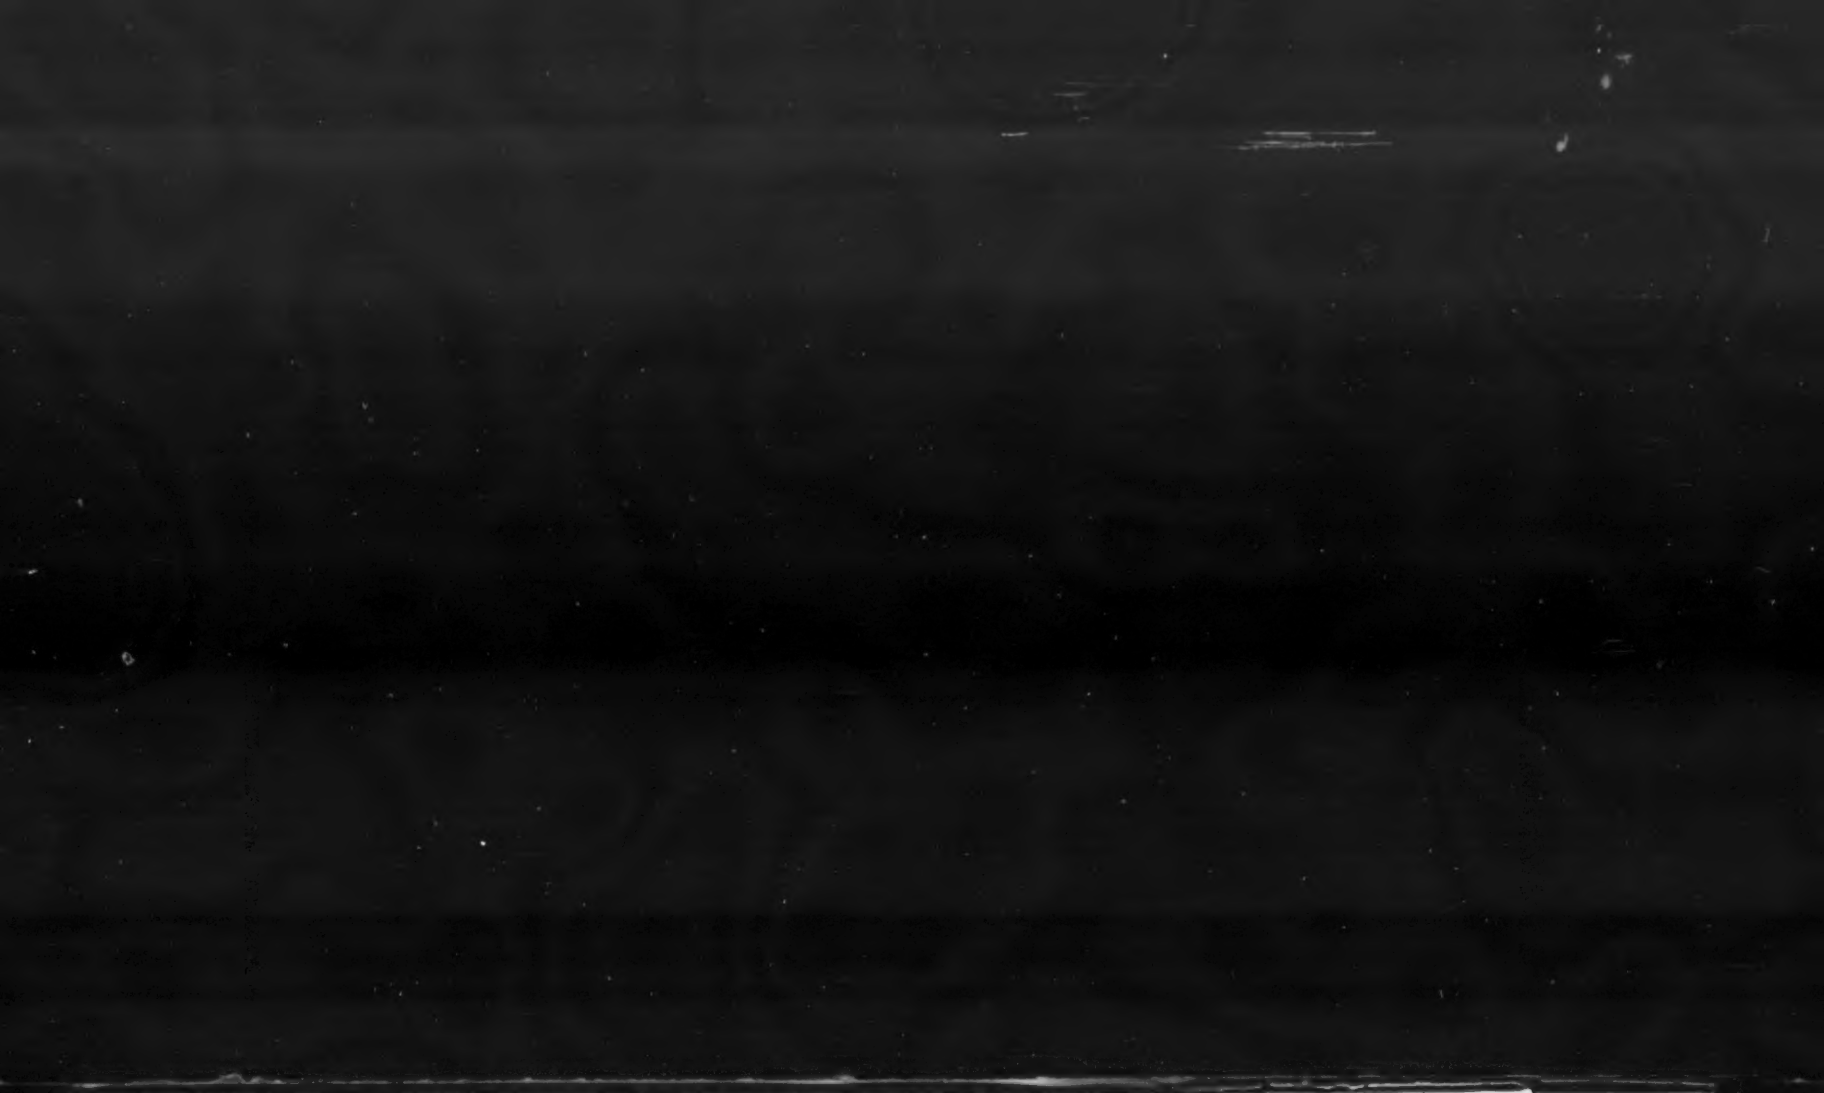
MANLY, A. L. Vocational Guidance for Colored People. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 79-82.

MATTHEWS, MARIE, and MORSE, EVA. Vocational Guidance in a General Continuation Part-Time School. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 162-165.

MEYER, MAX F. What College Students Are the Best Readers? No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 168-170.

PATERSON, DONALD G. The Limitations of Scientific Method in Educational Guidance. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 15-18.

PEDRAZA, MARIAN S. Adult Employ-



sibilities through Exploratory Activities. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 153-158.
RYAN, W. CARSON, JR. A Brief Historical Survey of the Vocational Guidance Movement. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 277-281.
SAUL, JOHN H. The How and Why of Guidance in the Public Evening High School. No. 1, October, 1925, pp. 20-22.
SCHAUFFLER, MARY C. Standards for Evaluating Occupational Studies for a Critical Bibliography. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 340-344.
SCHWAB, ABIGAIL. The Work of the Placement Office. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 97-102.
STICKLE, MRS. CAROLINE P. Types of Women Employees Desired in Banks. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 123-128.
TOLMAN, MARY H. Placement by Non-Public Agencies. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 273-276.
TRUITT, RALPH P. The Psychiatric Element in Vocational Guidance. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 87-92.
VITELES, MORRIS S. A Psychological Clinic for Vocational Guidance. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 78-79.
PHILADELPHIA NUMBER. Vocational Guidance in the Philadelphia High Schools. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 49-65. (Numerous Authors.)
PITTSBURGH NUMBER. Prepared by The Vocational Guidance Department, Pittsburgh Public Schools. No. 5, February, 1926.
Vocational and Curriculum Guidance, p. 195.
The Work of the Vocational Counselor in the Junior and Senior High schools, p. 199.
Some Leavening and Humanizing Features of the Modern High School, p. 212.
The Placement Officers, p. 242.
Devices through Which Vocational Guidance is Otherwise Presented, p. 231.
The Use of Mental Tests in the Guidance of High School Pupils, p. 242.
The Vocational Guidance Association of Western Pennsylvania, p. 243.
Coöperation between Industry and the Schools, p. 243.
Report of the Committee on Scholarships, p. 245.
Other Active Guidance Work being Done in the Pittsburgh District, p. 248.
PRATT, ANNA B. The Relation of School Counseling or Visiting Teaching to Vocational Guidance. No. 2, November, 1925, pp. 82-86.
ROBB, WILL C. Vocational Guidance from the Viewpoint of the Person Who Receives the Guidance. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 165-168.
ROBINSON, C. C. Personnel Service in the Social Agency. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 378-381.
RODGERS, ROBERT H. Guidance Possibilities through Exploratory Activities. No. 4, January, 1926, pp. 153-158.
VIVIAN, W. S. How Can Industrial and School Personnel Departments Cooperate? No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 106-110.
WALSH, JOHN F. The Apprentice Problem and Its Solution. No. 3, December, 1925, pp. 117-119.
WARNER, HENRIETTA C. The Basis of Selection of Scholarship Students. No. 8, May, 1926, pp. 374-378.
WATSON, GOODWIN B. The Measurement of the Less Tangible Qualities. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 281-289.
WEST, EDITH R. The Bureau of Occupations. No. 2, November, 1925, p. 72.
WILSON, LUCY L. W. Organization of a Girls' High School for Vocational Guidance. No. 6, March, 1926, pp. 259-262.
WOOD, BEN D. The Uses of Educational Measurements in Secondary Schools. No. 7, April, 1926, pp. 345-346.

OFFICERS AND TRUSTEES OF THE NATIONAL VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE ASSOCIATION

A FEDERATION OF BRANCH ORGANIZATIONS

An Organization Concerned with Educational and Vocational Guidance

President

W. CARSON RYAN, Jr.
Professor of Education, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa.

First Vice-President

A. H. EDGERTON
Chairman, Department of Industrial Education and Applied Arts
University of Wisconsin
Madison, Wis.

Second Vice-President

ANNE S. DAVIS
Director, Vocational Guidance
460 South State Street, Chicago, Ill.

Secretary

MARY P. CORRE
Director, Occupational Research Division
Vocation Bureau, Denton Building, Cincinnati, Ohio